Dear Harold -

It's no use hollering at me. When I write an assassination story, I call you because I think Touching base is a good idea. But I can't make anyone else in the office do it if they don't want to. The Lardner price shares the advantage of calling you, and I want to keep doing it when I do a story. But please Harold don't virtual me with your accomplished brush when I don't do the piece — Barb
